

FOREHEAD STABILIZER

In the medical products industry, we've never lacked from a variety of products. But that doesn't always equate to effective solutions.

Forward looking comes from Forward thinking.

At Gel Ovarations / Falcon, we knew the value of a good forehead stabilizer for clients with loss of neck strength after all available rehab solutions.

Maintaining the proper forward looking position of the head isn't a "nice to have" for your rehab client. It is literally a "have to have". It affects the Respiratory system, visual acuity, independence, energy levels, socialization and overall quality of life.

Until now, the available solutions have been barely "ok" at best.

The Problem

Existing products weren't providing these benefits for clients with loss of neck strength and who needed them most - people lacking the strength to hold up their heads up.

So, we went back to the drawing board and reinvented the forehead stabilizer. And the results have been overwhelmingly successful.

Benefits

- Keeps head up with ~15° of tilt and/or back angle
- Adjustability of pad position
- Easily flips back 180° when not needed
- Head can move without shearing or pressure
- Stable, exclusive Sta-Rite™ design
- Holds its position
- Affordable and easy to clean
- Special silicone GEL mimics human fatty tissue
- Works with virtually all headrest systems
- Maximum comfort & skin protection

Every 10 years we seem to come up with a product that people get so excited about because it solves a problem for them they just haven't been able to solve. Seems like we have one of those again.

Try it for yourself and see.
